

JAPANESE REPULSED IN SHANGHAI

CONGRESS SHOWING APPREHENSION OVER SHANGHAI TROUBLE

High-Handed Manner Of Jap Invasion Is Resented

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Congress is thoroughly concerned and apprehensive over the situation in the Far East.

While the surface is calm and members are largely restraining from action or comment that might embarrass the administration, underneath there is resentment and indignation over the high-handed manner in which Japan has violated her treaties and broken her pledges concerning China.

A number of senators, in private comment, compared the Japanese invasion of China, particularly of Shanghai, with Germany's ruthless sweep across Belgium in the critical days of August, 1914. The treaty to respect Belgium's neutrality was dismissed with the historical remark that it was "a scrap of paper."

The treaties to respect China's territories and administrative integrity, solemnly signed in Washington in 1922, have similarly been reduced to "scraps of paper" by Japan's aggression, and with them the Kellogg anti-war pact as well.

The events of the past week are likely to have several important results upon the policies of the American congress.

For one thing, they have blasted any possibility of further reduction of the American Navy, and on the contrary have accelerated the movement to start immediately toward building up the navy to the full strength of the London treaty.

For another, Japanese aggression has nullified any thought that the Geneva disarmament conference, due to meet next week, can accomplish anything.

So long as Japan's action was confined to Manchuria, congress showed few signs of being disturbed. But the occupation of Shanghai, the great international city of China, the gateway through which pass hundreds of millions of dollars in American goods each year, has put a totally different complexion on the matter.

Japan has promised in numerous notes that the "open door" will be maintained in the Far East, and that there will be "equal opportunity for all" in Asiatic commerce. But the sentiment in congress is inclined to question whether Japan's promises on that score are any more valuable than her promises in the nine-power and Kellogg treaties to respect China's integrity.

Publication of the diplomatic correspondence between Japan and the United States on Wednesday was something of a shock to senators and congressmen who had been paying little attention to developments in Manchuria.

It is an undeniable fact that Secretary Stimson's policy in dealing with the situation has been embarrassed by the naval situation.

Japan has as many warships in the harbor of Shanghai as the United States has in the entire Pacific. Moreover, they are post-war ships for the most part, while the American vessels are older and far less effective.

Since the Washington arms conference of 1922, which established a naval ratio between the United States and Japan as of 5 to 3 Japan has built steadily while the American navy has almost as steadily deteriorated.

The blunt fact is that many naval experts today consider the Japanese navy superior to the American in point of effectiveness. The United States possesses more ships, or "more metal," as some describe it, but Japan possesses the newer ships and more effective ships, particularly in cruisers.

STRIKE THREATENS IN HOCKING VALLEY

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—Threats of a new strike outbreak in the Hocking Valley have caused Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson to send Col. John Shettler, Ohio National Guard officer, back to the coal fields in the role of an emergency investigator, it was announced today.

Shettler was recalled a few days ago after spending months in the valley as a vigilance officer. Conditions were so peaceful that his presence was no longer required. He was ordered to return following reports that strike of 5,000 men may be called tomorrow in protest against a general wage cut.

SENTENCE WOMAN WHO POSED AS MAN

DUBLIN, Jan. 29.—Because she impersonated a man, Lavita Gray, 32, Tulsa, Okla., today faced a sentence of thirty days confinement in the workhouse here.

Gray's identity was revealed when she became ill and was removed from the guardhouse for three days.

HE SHOULD DO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—A rugged, husky florid faced marine, more than six feet and 200 pounds of brawn, is in the command of the 2,000 U. S. marines at Shanghai.

He is Col. R. S. Hooker, commanding the 4th regiment, comprising the legation guard and the detail on duty at the international settlement.

Col. Hooker is a Californian, born in 1877. His record has not been spectacular, but he has served with distinction in many of the marine corps famous expeditions. He saw Philippine service in 1902 during the pacification; in Panama in 1906, Porto Rico in 1910; Cuba in 1912, and extensive campaigns in Haiti.

GOVERNOR CONFERS ON SPECIAL RELIEF SESSION REQUEST

To Prepare Answer; Apparently Still Against Plan

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29—Governor George White responded today to a joint demand by Ohio's eight largest cities that he call a special relief session of the legislature to raise $21,000,000 for poor relief.

A series of conferences with his closest advisers was arranged, a special cabinet meeting was planned, and the state relief committee launched a state-wide investigation of reports that thousands of children are unable to attend school for lack of shoes.

The governor, surprised by the suddenness of yesterday's unexpected meeting of city officials and welfare workers, told International News Service he may have a definite answer within a week. Temporarily, however, he stood pat on his old answer—"No."

Several conferences were to be held by the governor with Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson and Commerce Director Theodore Tangemann, two of his principal associates, after which a cabinet meeting was expected to be called for next week.

The investigation of school conditions, started by Director of Education Beverly O. Skinner and Major E. O. Braught, secretary of the relief committee, calls for every school district to make a formal report of the number of children not attending class due to lack of shoes, food and clothing.

Superintendents were notified by Dr. Skinner that their reports must be in his office by Feb. 1. The inquiry was pushed with all possible speed after charges by Mrs. O. C. Bird of Athens, that 7,000 children are unable to attend classes in ten counties, were supported at yesterday's meeting by Scioto County Superintendent E. O. McCowen of Portsmouth.

"Eight per cent of the school children in our county are not attending," McCowen told the governor.

Officials of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Akron, Dayton, Columbus, Canton, Toledo and Youngstown, who called for the special session, found little encouragement in a statement given out to the press after the meeting.

If the governor was shaken in his often-expressed belief that there is no need for a special session, the statement did not show it.

His statement that "the solution is not in granting municipalities the authority to issue relief bonds because you cannot sell the bonds" dashed the hopes of a few cities which have been clamoring for re-enactment of the Pringle-Roberts "charity bond" law.

"I appreciate the gravity of the situation, but it is very largely an urban problem," the governor said. "To work out a solution is perhaps more involved than was realized by those who visited me."

Promising to give his "undivided attention" to the requests made, he added that "I shall try to work out some program by which some solution can be given."

A suggestion that the state issue $750,000 in state bonds, the money to be turned over to the state relief committee, was presented to the governor in yesterday's meeting. The constitution, it was pointed out, permits such action.

WING FLAP PLANE DEVICE TESTED

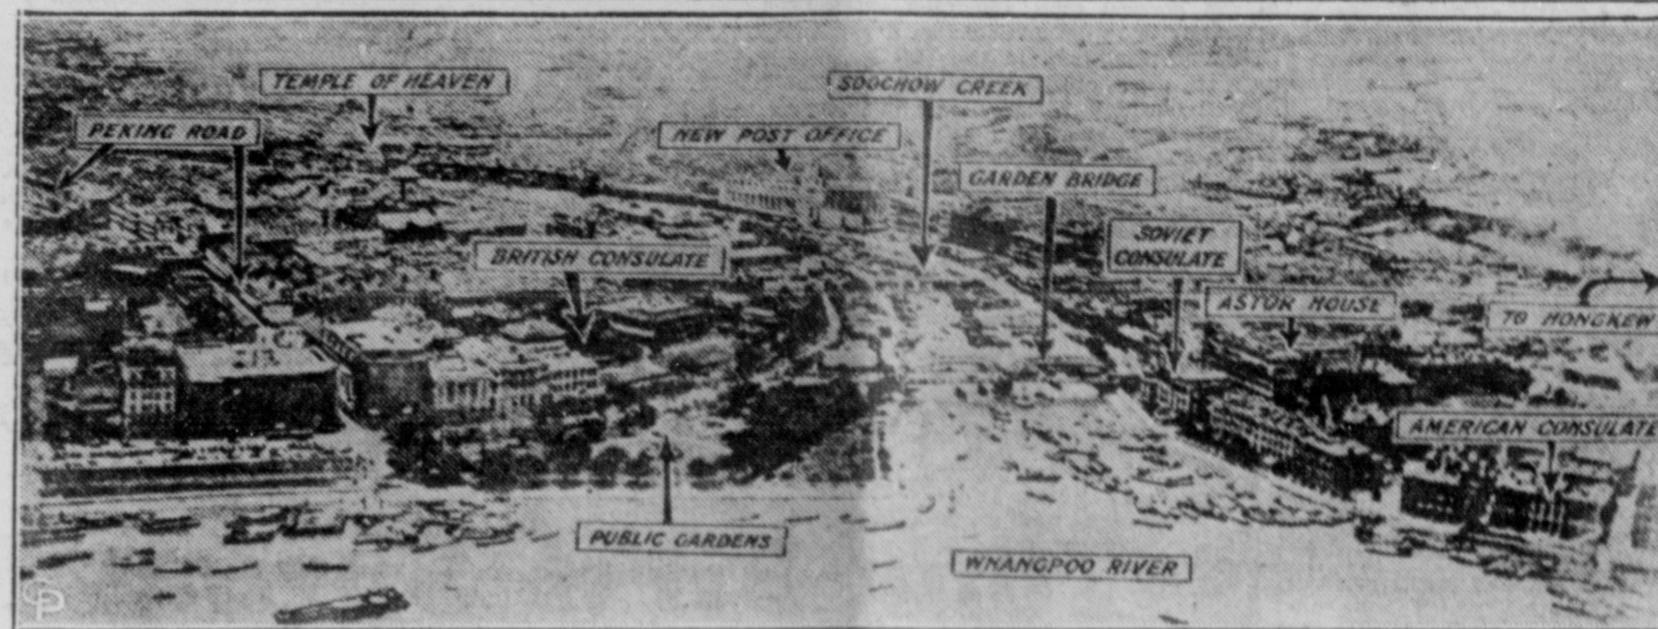

DAYTON, O., Jan. 29.—An airplane equipped with special "wing flaps," which are expected to revolutionize phases of heavier-than-air flying relating to safety and landing in small areas, has been flown to Washington for flight tests by the United States Navy. It was learned today.

The "wing flap" device, which is attached to the underside of the trailing edge of an airplane wing, was designed by Howard M. Rinshart, president of the Rhinehart-Wheeler Company here.

TAX INCREASE PLAN CUT BY COMMITTEE; RELIEVES INCOMES

Balancing Of Budget Will Be Delayed By Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Balancing of the federal budget may be postponed as a result of the decision of both Republican and Democratic fiscal leaders of the house to scrap the treasury's plan for retroactive tax increases.

The governor, surprised by the suddenness of yesterday's unexpected meeting of city officials and welfare workers, told International News Service he may have a definite answer within a week. Temporarily, however, he stood pat on his old answer—"No."

Investigate Theory That Survivor Fired Dwelling

CHARDON, O., Jan. 29.—Charred beyond recognition, two bodies found in the ruins of a farmhouse near Montville, were to be examined today for marks of violence.

The bodies are believed by officials to be those of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schmidt who resided in the farm home which burned to the ground yesterday under mysterious circumstances.

As the laboratory examination of the bodies was planned, county authorities continued to hold a man known as Steve Miller, a farmhand at the home, and the lone survivor of the tragic fire which razed the house before it was discovered by a neighbor.

The farmhand, employed at the Schmidt farm for the past four months, has admitted, according to Prosecutor Richard Bostwick that he jumped out of a second story window of the home when smoke began pouring into his room.

He took a suitcase with him when he left the house, and spent the rest of the night in the barn where he was found by neighbors and turned over to county officials.

Miller related that he did not know the house was afire, and believed his room was being filled with smoke from a defective flue, Bostwick said. The man was unable to explain why he had not informed his employers of the smoke, according to the prosecutor.

The district is also expected to endorse Goodrich and Mrs. O. A. Gale of Lima, for re-election of members of the state central committee.

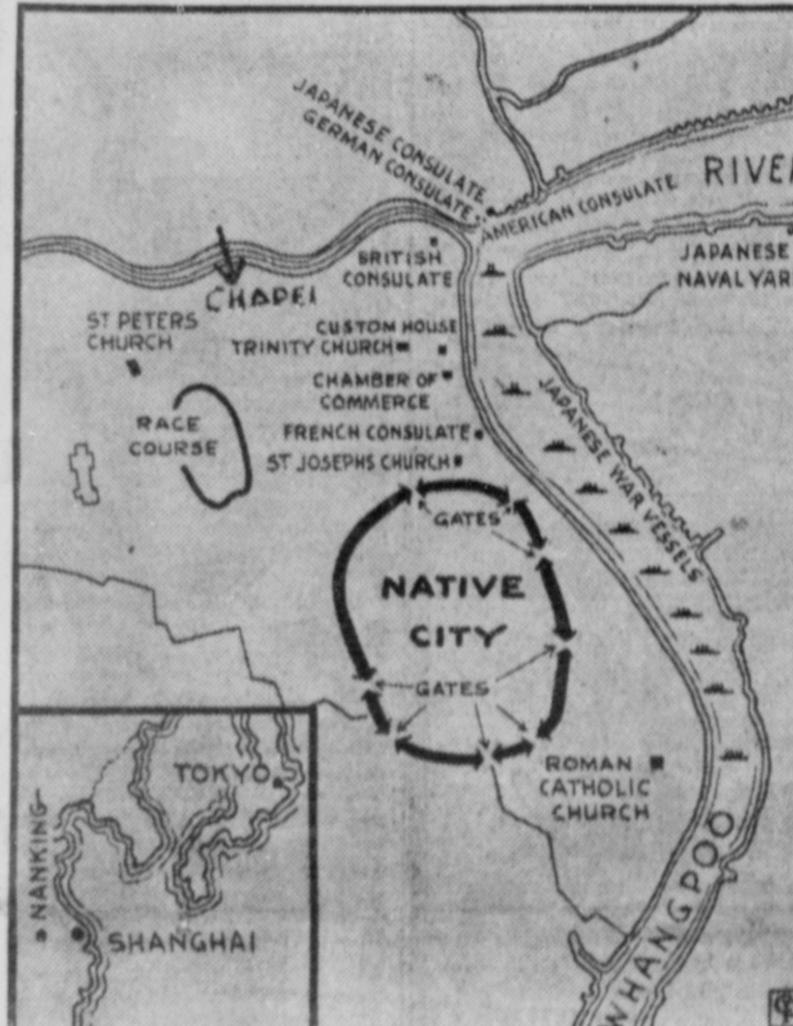

WAPAKONETA, O., Jan. 29.—Endorsement of Clarence J. Brown, secretary of state, as candidate for governor is expected to be given here tonight at a meeting of the fourth district Republican caucus.

SURRENDERED ON TWO CHARGES; BONDS TOTAL $6,000

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 29.—Held under bonds totalling $6,000, Grover W. Fleming, editor and publisher of the Ohio Examiner, scandal sheet, today awaited hearings here and at Columbus on charges growing out of articles published in his paper.

Fleming was surrendered to authorities yesterday by Joe Sheets of South Charleston, a former member of the Examiner staff, after he had been sought for twelve days.

The publisher was wanted here on a warrant obtained by Mayor Henry H. Buck, United States secret service agent, charging the circulation of a false rumor concerning a financial institution in Springfield. The charge in Columbus was one of criminal libel filed by William Davis, execution bailiff in municipal court.

Immediately following his surrender in Springfield, Fleming was arraigned before Judge A. Wagner. He was released to Columbus authorities under $5,000 bond. Taken to Columbus, Fleming was placed under bond of $1,000.

Both bonds were furnished, the one in Springfield by Scott Krauss of Columbus, Mrs. Nina Shumaker of Urbana and Theodore Leubek, and the one in Columbus by Krauss and Wilma C. Moore.

Fleming will be given a preliminary hearing at Springfield February 3. Frank L. Johnson, Xenia attorney, is a member of Fleming's counsel.

After hearing this testimony, the committee reviewed the records of the case and found that the conviction of Harris was not warranted. The committee then recalled the justice to the stand.

Informing the committee that he did not know the facts in the prosecution of Harris, the justice was charged with the circulation of a false rumor concerning a financial institution in Springfield. CAPITAL DEBS SPURN DEPRESSION

But This Season's Parties Have Been Less Elaborate

By BONITA WITT
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.—
Hard Times notwithstanding, the debutante season, in Washington, has been its usual success. Capital bubs have made their bows and the hotels have enjoyed a brilliant season.

Washington is always the Mecca of debutantes from many sections of the country, since a coming-out party there lends a certain distinction that no other locality can offer.

Although there probably have been more parties than ever before, they have not been such elaborate affairs this season. In the more affluent years $1,000 has been the minimum figure for which a girl could be launched in society. This year parties have been smaller, less expensive orchestras have been engaged, smaller rooms rented instead of entire floors of hotels and light refreshments have prevailed.

Secretaries Involved.

Social secretaries, of whom there are approximately forty in Washington, assume most of the burden of launching debutantes. These women know their social Washington thoroughly, and they are well paid for that knowledge. Their services are available by the hour or season. When one of them is retained to introduce a young girl into society, she immediately goes to the social bureaus of the large hotels to obtain a date. If the season is to be a full one, this often is done nearly a year in advance, since Christmas holiday time is an especially popular season and dates are in great demand.

Then the room is engaged and an orchestra is hired. The general scheme of the party, which invariably is a dance, is planned and invitations are addressed. The social secretary gets a large portion of the names out of the social register. Next she begins to think of young men guests. To be successful a party must have scores of attractive young men present. That is why the Christmas season is so popular with the debutantes, because the young men are home from the colleges and universities. A list of youths, who have signified their willingness to swell the star line at parties, may be purchased from a hotel social bureau for from $5 to $25.

No Obligation.

These young men rarely invite their hostesses to the theater, neither do they entertain. Attendance at a party implies no social obligation on their part.

To be popular a girl must be invited to scores of parties during her first season. Her mother's choice of a secretary, therefore, is important. A secretary can make or break a girl's social career with equal facility. She must know all of the other important secretaries so Won't you tell me that she is invited?" The girl, herself, need not know her hostess, since few hostesses know all of their guests, in fashionable Washington.

The secretary must be careful to invite the right persons and to avoid over display. CITY ENDS YEAR WITH BALANCE REPORT OF CITY AUDITOR SHOWSTHREE CANDIDATES OBTAIN PETITIONS

Denoting a healthy financial condition, the city of Xenia ended the year 1931 with a bank balance of $2,022.37 as compared with only $444.93 when the books were closed December 31 of the previous year, it is shown in City Auditor H. A. Higgins' yearly financial report, presented to City Commission Thursday night.

Revealing that the city administration functioned well within its income last year, the report shows an operating gain of $1,577.44 in the general fund for 1931.

Receipts accruing to the city from all sources in the general fund last year aggregated $61,973.13 as compared with expenditures totalling $60,395.69. Disbursements in the general fund amounted to $11,081.57 in the administrative department, $30,732.16 in the safety department, $3,046.91 in the health department and $15,525.05 in the service department.

Included in the report is a recapitulation of all operating funds of the city, disclosing that receipts in the general, street maintenance and repair, street sprinkling, cleaning and sweeping, inter-county

CITY ENDS YEAR WITH BALANCE REPORT OF CITY AUDITOR SHOWS

Denoting a healthy financial condition, the city of Xenia ended the year 1931 with a bank balance of $2,022,37 as compared with only $44,93 when the books were closed December 31 of the previous year, it is shown in City Auditor H. Revealing that the city administration functioned well within its income last year, the report shows an operating gain of $1,577.44 in the general fund for 1931.

Included in the report is a recapitulation of all operating funds of the city, disclosing that receipts in the general, street maintenance and repair, street sprinkling, cleaning and sweeping, inter-county highway and gasoline tax funds totalled $94,246.34 in 1931, exceeding operating costs by $6,950.25. This left a balance to the city's credit of all funds of $34,743.97 December 31 last as compared with a balance of $27,793.72 to start off the year 1931.

The interest and sinking fund trustees, the report also shows, have total holdings of $16,674.57, including $14,500 in securities and $2,174.57 cash in the bank. During 1931 the trustees retired $47,087 in bonds and notes. The only new issue was a $3,000 special assessment bond and the total bonded debt was reduced from $356,927 to $312,850.

Applying the holdings of the interest and sinking fund, amounting to $16,674.57, the city's general bonded debt is only $20,325.43. With actual receipts amounting to $37,215.47 against expenditures of $46,530.38, the municipal water works department was also able to show an operating gain of $685.09 last year, according to the report, leaving balance of $18,560.43 on hand December 31. Utility bonds retired during the year totalled $27,407.

Pretty Ceremony Unites Prominent Xenians

In a quiet ceremony performed at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Mary Louise Smith, only daughter of City Manager and Mrs. M. C. Smith, N. Detroit St., was united in marriage to Mr. Marcus McCallister, N. King St., prosecuting attorney of Greene County, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The single ring service was read by Rev. E. A. Rager, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church and was witnessed by twenty-four guests, members of the two immediate families and a few close friends of the couple. The service was performed in the living room of the Smith home before an impro-

COUPLE'S MARRIAGE IN KENTUCKY ANNOUNCED.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Doris Printz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Printz, Clifton, to Mr. Paul Berry son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Berry, Akron, is being made by the bride's parents. The couple was married in Covington, Ky., Saturday by the Rev. Mr. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry are now visiting relatives in Springfield. They expect to reside in Akron. Mrs. Berry was formerly employed at the Merchants Credit Rating Co., Springfield.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET HERE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Music of the romantic period and works of Brahms, Schumann, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Berlioz, Wagner, Liszt, and Hugo Wolf, will be discussed when the Xenia Woman's Music Club meets at the home of Mrs. J. D. Steele, N. Galloway St., Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. John Barlow and Miss Florence Steele will be hostesses. The program will be in charge of the third division.

Irma Teach, junior at Central High School, placed tenth with 9.2 points instead of Irvin Marshall with 9 points on the honor roll of the junior class, according to an announcement made by the high school Thursday.

Mr. John Bradfield, Dayton Ave., underwent an operation on his eye at Lakewood Hospital, Cleveland, Tuesday morning. He is improving satisfactorily according to word received by relatives.

The Rev. B. L. George, Wilmington, will preach at the Lumberton Church, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Attorney Marcus Shoup attended the meeting of the Ohio State Bar Association in Cincinnati Wednesday.

Mrs. Blanche Strome, W. Third St., who has been ill at her home remains in about the same condition.

Miss Alberta Osborne, E. Main St., is seriously ill at her home suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Services will be held at the Old Town M. E. Church Sunday, with Sunday School at 10 a. m. and preaching services at 11 a. m. The Rev. R. S. McColm, Xenia, will be the speaker. Attendance at the service last Sunday was gratifying and members and friends of the historic old church are asked to turn out and support the church with a full attendance. The aim is to have 100 at Sunday School and every one is asked to remain for the church service.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver McCall, near New Jasper, are announcing the birth of a son Thursday evening. The baby was born at Dr. R. L. Haines' private hospital, Jamestown.

The Ladies Aid Society of Trinity M. E. Church will hold an all day meeting in the church parlors Wednesday. A covered dish dinner will be served at noon.

Mrs. Reed Madden and son, Bill Tilden, W. Church St., are spending several days in Bloomington, Ill.

Mrs. Mary M. Meredith, N. King St., will leave Saturday evening for Washington D. C. where she will be the guest for two days of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, congresswoman from Florida. From Washington Mrs. Meredith will go to Baltimore where she will join Dr. and Mrs. Austin M. Patterson and family, this city, and will go by boat to Miami, Fla., to spend several weeks.

Mrs. E. A. Rager, E. Main St., who underwent a series of operations at McClellan Hospital Monday, is recovering favorably.

Mr. Paul Snider of Snider's drug store attended a dinner meeting of the Miami Valley Rexall Club at the Shrine Club, Dayton, Thursday evening.

Mrs. B. F. Thomas, N. Detroit St., who is a patient at Espey Hospital recovering from a recent illness, remains in about the same condition.

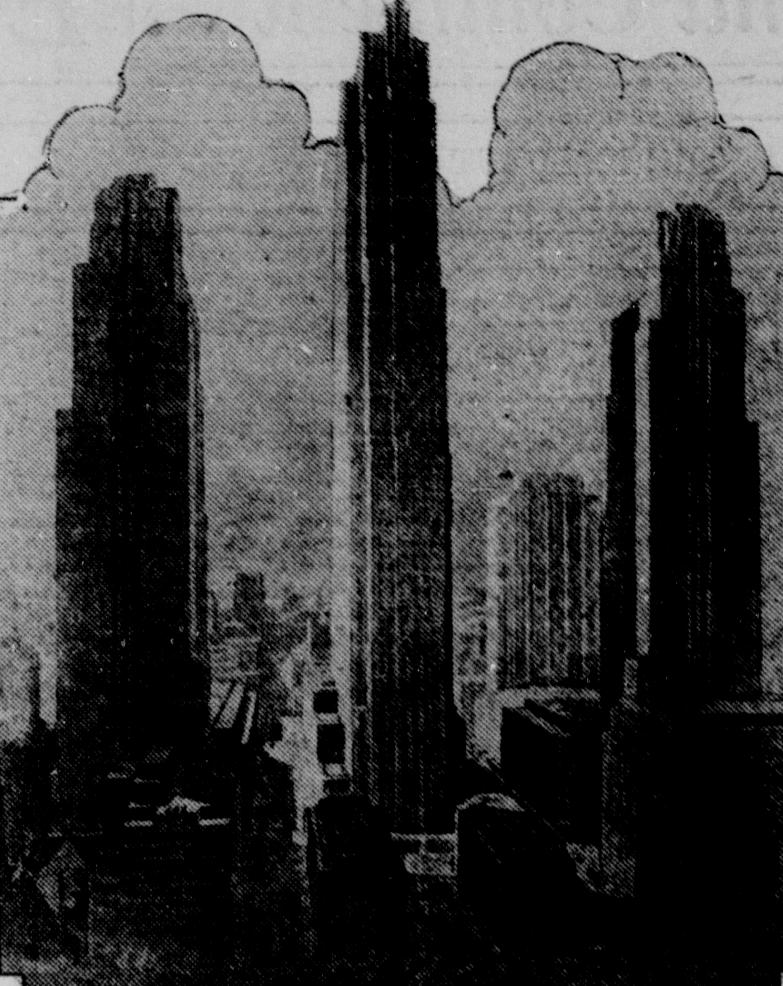

Mr. Arthur Miller spent Thursday in Fort Wayne, Ind., where he attended a meeting of General Electric dealers at the General Electric plant.

Mr. Edmund Littell, New York City, well-known short story writer, is spending several weeks here at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Mary M. Meredith, N. King St.

Miss Josephine John, N. Galloway St., entertained members of her bridge club at her home Monday evening.

Evangelist Ralph E. Stewart will preach at services at the Friends Church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Radio Heart of World

Here is a new view of what the huge Rockefeller project in New York will look like when completed. The development, known as Radio City, will cover three entire blocks and will consist of one immense structure flanked by two comparatively smaller ones, each carrying out the architect's general design. The gigantic tower in the center will house the greatest radio companies in the world.

MUNICIPAL COURT MADE PROFIT IN 1931 CLERK'S REPORT SHOWS

Xenia's Municipal Court, which celebrated its second birthday anniversary January 1, proved a money-making institution during 1931, showing a net operating gain of $3,027.03 for the year.

This is revealed in the annual detailed report of receipts and expenditures, prepared by City Auditor H. A. Higgins, clerk of the court and submitted to City Commission Thursday night.

The report also shows a total of 437 criminal actions and 426 civil suits were filed in the court last year.

Receipts in the criminal division, represented by fines and costs collected, aggregated $7,718.56. Clerk's costs, which was the share of Xenia city, totaled $721.60 in the civil branch of the court.

Receipts from these two sources of revenue amounted jointly to $7,440.16 to be distributed to city and county offices as follows: Xenia city, $4,863.26; Greene County, $1,287.80; Greene County Law Library, $1,738.15; state departments, $435.25; sheriff's fees, $110.75; clerk of Common Pleas Court, $4.95.

Xenia city's revenue from the court's business, amounting to $4,863.26, included $4,141.66 realized from the receipts of the criminal division and $721.60 from the costs of the civil division.

Disbursements of the city, including $1,350 as its share of the judge's salary, $317.41 for stationery, $84 for furniture and fixtures, $50 for witness fees and $34.82 for incidentals, aggregated $1,863.23.

Deducting expenses of $1,863.23 from receipts of $4,863.26 left a balance on hand of $3,027.03 at the close of 1931. This sum, representing the net operating gain of the court over expenditures, revert to the general operating fund of the city.

Monthly receipts from the court's criminal division, as shown in the report for 1931, were as follows:

January, $672.31; February, $240.20; March $976.80; April $1,323.

wounded in bombing of the station building into the settlement on stretchers, these foreigners exposed themselves to aerial bombing and machine-gun fire.

Both sides apparently called a truce for this work, carried out under the Red Cross organization, although the danger of harm through an untoward incident was great.

Japanese officials conferred with the municipal council of the international settlement and declared they had no intention of interfering there.

Japanese marines were posted along the famous bund, "Broadway of Shanghai."

They were stationed near the post office within the international settlement. In landing forces they held up traffic to cross over the bridge to Soochow Creek, the shortest route between the Whangpo River and the Chapel area, whence they headed.

The troops were landed from ships which anchored in the river.

Meanwhile four American destroyers were enroute from the United States Asiatic naval base at Manilla. They were expected in two days.

The ships were dispatched at the request of Rear Admiral Y. S. Williams, commander of the Wmappo Patrol, who wanted reinforcements to his gunboats for protecting American property in the settlement.

The destroyers will be able to navigate the river for a fair distance, far enough to protect the international settlement.

GENEVA, Jan. 29.—The Chinese government today formally invoked articles ten and fifteen of the League of Nations covenant in protest against Japanese occupation of the native sections of the city of Shanghai.

Article ten pledges members of the league to "respect and preserve against external aggression the political independence of all members."

Article fifteen envisages the calling into session of the assembly of the league, an extraordinary step, but which becomes of great significance in view of the fact that practically all the nations that are members of the league now have delegations in Geneva for the opening of the international disarmament conference next Tuesday.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Geneva today said the action of W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, in invoking articles ten and fifteen on the League of Nations covenant with respect to the Shanghai situation, is tantamount to a declaration that a state of war exists between China and Japan.

SWINDLE IN POLICE STATION

TROUBLED ALL LIFE WITH CONSTIPATION

But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
Brought Real Relief

If you are subject to headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness and other effects that so often result from constipation, read Mrs. Turner's voluntary letter.

"For the past six months I have been eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and cannot praise it too highly.

"An fifty years of age. All my life have been troubled with constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has not only helped me, but has cured me.

"I thought I couldn't like the taste of bran, but Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious." — Mrs. C. J. Turner, 507 Hanover Street, Fall River, Mass.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

Deducting expenses of $1,863.23 from receipts of $4,863.26 left a balance on hand of $3,027.03 at the close of 1931. This sum, representing the net operating gain of the court over expenditures, reverts to the general operating fund of the city.

Monthly receipts from the court's criminal division, as shown in the report for 1931, were as follows: January, $672.31; February, $240.20; March $976.80; April $1,323.

Certainly this is more natural than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not hard-forming. Two tablespoonsfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My son, let not them depart from thine eyes: keep sound wisdom and discretion.—Proverbs, iii, 21.

LOSS TO FINANCE

The recent death of Paul M. Warburg deprives the financial world of a figure it can ill afford to lose at this time. Throughout the whole of a forceful and extended career, Mr. Warburg stood for sensible conservatism and sound financing. As a pioneer of the Federal Reserve System with which he was identified officially throughout two distinct periods, for a time being Deputy Governor of the board, he had a large part in the upbuilding of that valuable institution and in the formulation of its basic policies; and when, standing on the outside, he found occasion to criticize the manner in which its affairs were managed, what he said was authoritative and had effect.

Mr. Warburg also was one of the first to advocate reorganization of Federal Government finance and the establishment of a budget system, and his work in that direction was a factor which helped toward the introduction of businesslike methods in the management of monetary affairs in Washington.

In the international banking field Mr. Warburg wielded a large influence and was held in high respect. He was one of the men who counted.

Other Editorial Thoughts

LAWYERS AND LAW REVISION

George W. Wickersham makes a serious statement in telling the members of the American Law Institute that their effort to revise the civil and criminal laws of the country are being opposed and hampered by judges and lawyers. But he does not speak without inquiry and investigation, and he arrests attention when he asserts that "state legislatures usually are dominated by lawyers, a large portion of whose practice consists in the defense of persons charged with crime," and that these attorneys "seldom show any interest in the enactment of legislation which will remove technical obstacles to trial or conviction, or would facilitate the prompt and efficient administration of justice."

Beyond doubt, the element Mr. Wickersham specially refers to, has an appreciable hostile influence on efforts to make law enforcement more simple and more effective. There are many criminal attorneys today who are far more anxious to build up a business by establishing a reputation for defeating the law in the interest of clients than they are to promote justice and public safety. But we cannot believe that attorneys of this sort, who are in a small minority in their profession and seem numerous only because of their extreme activity as mischief makers, could alone obstruct a reform of the American criminal code.

Much of the inertia and opposition the Institute is obliged to combat in its effort to secure a revision of law and practice is unquestionably the outgrowth of an instilled love for precedent and tradition among members of the bar. Judges and lawyers are educated to consider certain rules and methods of court practice necessary and inviolable. With some of them, technicalities are fetishes. It is not easy for these men to understand the pressing necessity for throwing overboard whatever is cumbersome, antiquated and harmful, in order to make the administration of justice as simple and as primitive as possible. Whatever is seems to them sacrosanct.

Nor is this attitude among members of the bar to be wholly condemned, where it is conscientious. For while it may obstruct, it also acts as a brake against hasty, inconsiderate or too radical action, which must be overruled lest what is intended to be a reform, shall prove to be only a new abuse.

There is desperate need for better law and for new rules and new practice in the courts, but when they come, the changes must be sound and sensible ones or they will be worse than nothing.—Detroit Free Press.

Gazetteers

One reason no other country has a leader like Gandhi is because most other countries keep such citizens in their places.

Lots of people and political divisions in this country are learning that it is often easier to borrow than it is to pay back.

We wonder if many of those who are criminally inclined notice how many convictions in murder and other major cases are occurring recently and realize that the old saying "crime doesn't pay" seems quite true.

Revisions Seen As Necessary

By JESSIE DELL

Member, United States Civil Service Commission

The present century is making history at a staggering pace. The past 15 years have witnessed more changes in government than any period of the same duration since the Renaissance. The world is on the eve of vast economic adjustments. The United States no longer holds a position of isolation. A world economy is not a theory but a fact.

What preparation are our colleges and universities giving our young men and women for grappling with the tremendous problems which will confront them when they take their places as the burden-bearers?

Occupational training is not sufficient. In our student bodies of today are to be found a majority of the men and women who will be our leaders in industry, in the professions, in government, and in social and economic relations a few years hence.

I do not mean to say that all leaders are college-trained and all of the followers are those without college training. There is a type of man or woman who will acquire an education and who will forge ahead in spite of all obstacles. On the other hand, thousands of milk-wagon drivers and grocery store clerks have a college diploma tucked away in an old trunk in the garret.

What I do mean is that, other things being equal, the college-trained man or woman may be expected to lead. The obligation, therefore, resting upon the educational institution to teach, to guide, to fully equip in mind, body, and spirit, for business and social leadership, is a heavy one.

There is evidence on every hand that the world's economic structure is out of tune, that it is old-fashioned, and that radical changes are necessary to establish the proper balance between effort, or the willingness to put forth effort, and the just reward of effort.

What are our higher educational institutions doing to train those of our young citizens, on whom such vast responsibility will rest within a comparatively few years? What will they know about government, about the relations between capital and labor, about the tariff, about finance, about production and distribution, about the ineffaceable dependence of one country upon other countries, about all the great social and economic problems which will all but overwhelm them?

The training of the boy or girl should promote growth and capacity, moral, mental and physical strength, and sound citizenship. Interested and informed citizens who know how to co-operate are needed in the intricate tasks of government, of economic and social life. If the schools properly train the youth of America in the problems of citizenship, there need be no fear of the continued success of popular government.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My son, let not them depart from thine eyes: keep sound wisdom and discretion.—Proverbs, iii, 21.

LOSS TO FINANCE

The recent death of Paul M. Warburg deprives the financial world of a figure it can ill afford to lose at this time. Throughout the whole of a forceful and extended career, Mr. Warburg stood for sensible conservatism and sound financing. As pioneer of the Federal Reserve System with which he was identified officially throughout two distinct periods, for a time being Deputy Governor of the board, he had a large part in the upbuilding of that valuable institution and in the formulation of its basic policies; and when, standing on the outside, he found occasion to criticize the manner in which its affairs were managed, what he said was authoritative and had effect.

Mr. Warburg also was one of the first to advocate reorganization of Federal Government finance and the establishment of a budget system, and his work in that direction was a factor which helped toward the introduction of businesslike methods in the management of monetary affairs in Washington.

In the international banking field Mr. Warburg wielded a large influence and was held in high respect. He was one of the men who counted.

LAWYERS AND LAW REVISION

George W. Wickersham makes a serious statement in telling the members of the American Law Institute that their effort to revise the civil and criminal laws of the country are being opposed and hampered by judges and lawyers. But he does not speak without inquiry and investigation, and he arrests attention when he asserts that "state legislatures usually are dominated by lawyers, a large portion of whose practice consists in the defense of persons charged with crime," and that these attorneys " seldom show any interest in the enactment of legislation which will remove technical obstacles to trial or conviction, or would facilitate the prompt and efficient administration of justice."

Beyond doubt, the element Mr. Wickersham specially refers to, has an appreciable hostile influence on efforts to make law enforcement more simple and more effective. There are many criminal attorneys today who are far more anxious to build up a business by establishing a reputation for defeating the law in the interest of clients than they are to promote justice and public safety. But we cannot believe that attorneys of this sort, who are in a small minority in their profession and seem numerous only because of their extreme activity as mischievous makers, could alone obstruct a reform of the American criminal code.

Much of the inertia and opposition the Institute is obliged to combat in its effort to secure a revision of law and practice is unquestionably the outgrowth of an instilled love for precedent and tradition among members of the bar. Judges and lawyers are educated to consider certain rules and methods of court practice necessary and inviolable. With some of them, technicalities are fetishes. It is not easy for these men to understand the pressing necessity for throwing overboard whatever is cumbersome, antiquated and harmful, in order to make the administration of justice as simple and as primitive as possible. Whatever is, seems to them sacrosanct.

Nor is this attitude among members of the bar to be wholly condemned, where it is conscientious. For while it may obstruct, it also acts as a brake against hasty, inconsiderate or too radical action, which must be overruled lest what is intended to be a reform, shall prove to be only a new abuse.

There is desperate need for better law and for new rules and new practice in the courts, but when they come, the changes must be sound and sensible ones or they will be worse than nothing.—Detroit Free Press.

One reason no other country has a leader like Gandhi is because most other countries keep such citizens in their places.

Lots of people and political divisions in this country are learning that it is often easier to borrow than it is to pay back.

We wonder if many of those who are criminally inclined notice how many convictions in murder and other major cases are occurring recently and realize that the old saying "crime doesn't pay" seems quite true.

Revisions Seen As Necessary

By JESSIE DELL

The present century is making history at a staggering pace. The past 15 years have witnessed more changes in government than any period of the same duration since the Renaissance. The world is on the eve of vast economic adjustments. The United States no longer holds a position of isolation. A world economy is not a theory but a fact. What preparation are our colleges and universities giving our young men and women for grappling with the tremendous problems which will confront them when they take their places as the burden-bearers?

Occupational training is not sufficient. In our student bodies of today are to be found a majority of the men and women who will be our leaders in industry, in the professions, in government, and in social and economic relations a few years hence.

PARENTS TOLD TO READ TO CHILDREN AS COMRADESHIP GAINED THRU BOOKS

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

When we read to children, we not only stimulate their imagination, give them good language patterns, and afford them rich enjoyment, but we also prepare them for good, silent reading later.

Their chief interest grows in meaning and not in mere words. Children who have been read to from very early years will not be mere word readers when they enter school. They will be prepared to gain information by themselves from the printed page—the main purpose of reading, the chief avenue for gaining information.

When we tell stories to the child, he grows interested in us as a medium of his information and enjoyment. But when we read to him he comes to think of the book or the magazine as the source of the story which delights him. The book, therefore, soon takes on a kind of personality, and the child acquires a tenderness and an affection toward it. The child reads to from early years learns to handle books with care. He thinks of them as did Charles Dickens when a young child, as "my dear old story books."

By reading to the children early we develop between them and us a close comradeship. Nothing affords the father a better opportunity to cultivate companionship with his children than does reading to them. When he comes home, waiting till supper is ready, while the child is tired and restless, and the mother worn and weary, let him quiet the little one by reading stories to him. Then before bedtime let there be another period of reading.

In case there are several children, mother can read to one or two while dad reads to one or two others.

Many a time I sat reading a story to one of our children while their mother sat nearby reading a different story for another. Neither child was in any way distracted. Each was listening in rapt attention to his own story.

Let the older child who can read entertain his baby brother or sister by reading. While doing so, he improves his skill in reading and does something useful, giving others enjoyment. There is no better way to help a school child who is a poor reader than to encourage him to read aloud to a parent.

XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY OBITUARY, FUNERAL NOTICES

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED by Phil

Do you suppose this corner of the page may be permitted to stretch a point and include bridge in the category of sports?

At any rate, the recent bridge "Battle of the Century" to test the superiority of two rival bidding systems, so absorbed public attention, that it is a good guess the proposed state-wide bridge tournament, commencing February 8, should attract many entrants from all parts of Greene County.

The coming tournament is primarily for the average, everyday player. It is "Bridge As You Like It." Play will extend into practically every community in Ohio. Local auspices will have charge of Greene County play.

Any "system" may be used—"officially," "Culbertson," or the good old "catch-as-catch-can, pray-for-the-cards" system.

An article appeared recently in the public prints giving pointers on another new and novel system, quite different from the "official 1-2-3" system and the "approach-forcing" system.

Contract bridge players in the gashouse district of New York swear by the Kelly "signal" system, invented by John Aloysius Kelly, which has withstood the test of time.

Modestly, Mr. Kelly himself observes that his winnings, at a quarter of a cent a point, have paid good dividends in the last year, netting him a second-hand auto, free room rent and plenty of pocket money.

The fact it has three variations is one of the beauties of Kelly's "signal" system. Briefly, they are the "touch," "whistlings" and "conversational" variations.

Under the "touch" variation bidding is conducted as follows:

If Mr. Kelly thoughtfully cups his chin in the palm of his hand, strength in clubs is indicated. If Mr. Kelly casually passes his hand across his mouth, his partner is to bid diamonds. Shading the eyes with the hand indicates hearts; hand on forehead, spades; and smoothing the hair back, no trumps.

Equally effective, it is said, are the other two variations of the "signal system." When the players are in a gay mood the "whistling" is employed. When Mr. Kelly cheerfully whistles "So wear little string around your finger, so you'll remember me," you may be sure he has no mean hand in diamonds. A switch to the funeral march indicates spades. "There's a girl in the heart of Maryland, with a heart that belongs to me," is almost too obvious. "Beside an open fireplace" suggests lobs, sticks and therefore clubs. And for a no trump there is "Baby, I've got everything."

Even more latitude is provided by the "conversational variation." Any chance remarks such as the following will do:

Diamond—"The Giants are playing at the polo grounds today."

Spade—"It's almost time to start planting the garden."

Heart—"Old Doc Brown tells me my blood pressure is getting pretty high."

Club—"I'd like to join the Elks."

For further variations communicate with Mr. Kelly.

J. W. SHANK

J. W. Shank, 69, prominent Dayton coal merchant and native of Greene County, died at his home, 21 E. Beechwood Ave., in that city, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. He had been ill for three weeks, suffering from a nervous breakdown and a complication of diseases.

Mr. Shank was born in Sugar-creek Twp., near Bellbrook, November 4, 1863, and after spending some years on a farm at Alpha, moved to Dayton where, for the last thirty-one years, he had been engaged in the retail coal business.

He was a member of the Second Trinity Lutheran Church and also of the Knights of Pythias in Dayton.

Surviving him are his widow, Nan R. Shank; two brothers, H. A. Shank, Alpha, and J. C. Shank, Dayton; two nephews, Robert L. and Warren Shank, and a niece, Mary E. Shank.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home in Dayton Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, with burial at Morrow, O.

MRS. HARRY DEVOE

Mrs. Mary L. Devoe, 44, wife of Harry Devoe, died at her home on the Paintersville Pike, near Jamestown, Friday morning at 10:40 o'clock. She had been in failing health several months and had been seriously ill two weeks suffering from a complication of disease.

Mrs. Devoe was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller. She had spent the greater part of her life in Greene County and had taught school a number of years. She taught during 1930-31 at Hyslop School, near New Jasper. Mrs. Devoe was a member of the M. P. Church, Paintersville.

Besides her husband she is retained their undefeated status in the feminine division of the county competition by winning from Ross girls in the preliminary, 23 to 19.

The triumph of Ross boys, defending county champions, was their eighth straight in the rivalry with other county schools, while the defeat was Cedarville's second. Cedarville's feminine team has now won three games in a row. The record of Ross girls stands at six victories and two defeats.

The Ross and Cedarville boys' quints appeared evenly matched in the first half, which ended with the county champs in possession of a none too comfortable lead, 10 to 8. JOHN S. FAWCETT

John Sherman Fawcett, 66, well-known resident of Paintersville, died suddenly Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. He had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Copsey, Paintersville, and had started home when he fell in the door. He suffered hemorrhage which was caused by a ruptured artery in the throat and died within a few minutes.

Mr. Fawcett had spent his entire life in Paintersville. His wife, Mrs. Anna Fawcett, preceded him in death in 1925. He is survived by the following children: Paul Fawcett, at home; Morris and Hansell Fawcett and Mrs. Helen King, Dayton; Mrs. Velma Haigler, Old Town; and Harold Fawcett, Xenia, who is employed at the Commercial and Savings Bank. A brother, Elmer Fawcett, Dayton and a sister, Mrs. Frank Fisher, Xenia, also survive besides his mother, Mrs. Louisa Fawcett, Paintersville, with whom he made his home.

Funeral services will be held at the M. P. Church, Paintersville, of which he was a member, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

Even more latitude is provided by the "conversational variation." Any chance remarks such as the following will do:

Diamond—"The Giants are playing at the polo grounds today."

Spade—"It's almost time to start planting the garden."

Heart—"Old Doc Brown tells me my blood pressure is getting pretty high."

Club—"I'd like to join the Elks."

For further variations communicate with Mr. Kelly.

WHILE JOHN L. was changing hisistic reputation in 1880 from a strictly local one to national renown, Goss' reign came to an end. Paddy Ryan, a 220-pound, six-foot Irishman, born in County Tipperary, in a battle at Collier's Station, W. Va., June 21, defeated Joe Goss in 87 rounds, winning the American heavyweight title.

The bout was savagely fought despite its extreme length.

Do you suppose this corner of the page may be permitted to stretch a point and include bridge in the category of sports?

At any rate, the recent bridge "Battle of the Century" to test the superiority of two rival bidding systems, so absorbed public attention, that it is a good guess the proposed state-wide bridge tournament, commencing February 8, should attract many entrants from all parts of Greene County.

The coming tournament is primarily for the average, everyday player. It is "Bridge As You Like It." Play will extend into practically every community in Ohio. Local auspices will have charge of Greene County play.

Any "system" may be used—"officially," "Culberison," or the good old "catch-as-catch-can, pray-for-the-cards" system.

An article appeared recently in the public prints giving pointers on another new and novel system, quite different from the "official 1-2-3" system and the "approaching-forcing" system.

Contract bridge players in the gashouse district of New York swear by the Kelly "signal" system, invented by John Aloysius Kelly, which has withstood the test of time.

Modestly, Mr. Kelly himself observed that his winnings, at a quarter of a cent a point, have paid good dividends in the last year, netting him a second-hand auto, free room rent and plenty of pocket money.

The fact it has three variations is one of the beauties of Kelly's "signal" system. Briefly, they are the "touch," "whistling" and "conversational" variations.

Under the "touch" variation bidding is conducted as follows:

If Mr. Kelly thoughtfully cups his chin in the palm of his hand, strength in clubs is indicated. If Mr. Kelly casually passes his hand across his mouth, his partner is to bid diamonds. Shading the eyes with the hand indicates hearts; hand on forehead, spades; and smoothing the hair back, no.

J. W. SHANK

J. W. Shank, 69, prominent Dayton coal merchant and native of Greene County, died at his home, 21 E. Beechwood Ave., in that city, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. He had been ill for three weeks, suffering from a nervous breakdown and a complication of diseases.

Mr. Shank was born in Sugar-creek Twp., near Bellbrook, November 4, 1863, and after spending some years on a farm at Alpha, moved to Dayton where, for the last thirty-one years, he had been engaged in the retail coal business.

He was a member of the Second Trinity Lutheran Church and also of the Knights of Pythias in Dayton.

Surviving him are his widow, Nan R. Shank; two brothers, H. A. Shank, Alpha, and J. C. Shank, Dayton; two nephews, Robert L. and Warren Shank, and a niece, Mary E. Shank.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home in Dayton Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, with burial at Morrow, O.

MRS. HARRY DEVOE

Mrs. Mary L. Devoe, 44, wife of Harry Devoe, died at her home on the Paintersville Pike, near Jamestown, Friday morning at 10:40 o'clock. She had been in failing health several months and had been seriously ill two weeks suffering from a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Devoe was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller. She had spent the greater part of her life in Greene County and had taught school a number of years. She taught during 1930-31 at Hyslop School, near New Jasper. Mrs. Devoe was a member of the M. P. Church, Paintersville.

Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Fred Miller, Paintersville; two brothers, Raymond and Charles Miller, Paintersville and a sister, Mrs. Glenn Thompson, Wilmington Pike, near Xenia.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

JOHN S. FAWCETT

John Sherman Fawcett, 66, well-known resident of Paintersville, died suddenly Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. He had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Copsey, Paintersville, and had started home when he fell in the door. Can You Afford

Thomas, one of the twelve, . . . was not with them.

—John 20:24

Costly Absence

JESUS and His disciples doubtless missed the presence of Thomas, but Thomas missed far more than they. He missed an opportunity of seeing the risen Jesus; the joy of fellowship, personal blessing, encouragement; strength, spiritual food, and the reinforcement of faith which he so sorely needed.

Two things impress us about Thomas: He was not there—and he doubted! His absence is not explained, but might not his absence explain his doubt?

Absence from Church weakens our faith, starves our souls, disarms us, robs us of rich spiritual experiences. We cannot afford the cost of absence! Come to Church!

To Parents

Are your children missing the inspiration of Christian teachings, the contact of noble lives, the joy of good works, well done? They may be missing these if they do not attend Sunday School. Bring them tomorrow.

To the Visitor

You may be absent from home but you need not be absent from the inspiration and fellowship of other Christians. Come to one of our Churches tomorrow.

sermon. The subject matter of the sermon by the pastor will be "The Christ of the Bowery."

Evangelistic services each evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Tabernacle on E. Third St.

Prayer and Bible hour, Wednesday, 7:30 p. m.

The pastor's class for instructions meets Wednesday, 3:45 p. m.

The power to survive the high pressure of our present-day affairs takes more than a human force.

Some measure of survival can be approximated with great strain, but the only successful plan is to align human efforts with the Divine power. The church of Jesus Christ offers and promotes the alignment of human forces with divine power. The accomplishment tells in many lives helped.

Every evening, except Monday, at 7:30 p. m. revival services at the Tabernacle. Do not forget the special prayer meetings.

Mr. Lytle will be glad to meet with any one who may desire to confer with him with reference to the claims of Christ and their relationship to the church. Call 781-R.

Absence from Church weakens our faith, starves our souls, disarms us, robs us of rich spiritual experiences. We cannot afford the cost of absence! Come to Church!

Two things impress us about Thomas: He was not there—and he doubted! His absence is not explained, but might not his absence explain his doubt?

Thomas, one of the twelve, . . . was not with them.

Can You Afford

Thomas, one of the twelve, . . . was not with them.

—John 20:24

Costly Absence

JESUS and His disciples doubtless missed the presence of Thomas, but Thomas missed far more than they. He missed an opportunity of seeing the risen Jesus; the joy of fellowship, personal blessing, encouragement; strength, spiritual food, and the reinforcement of faith which he so sorely needed.

Are your children missing the inspiration of Christian teachings, the contact of noble lives, the joy of good works, well done? They may be missing these if they do not attend Sunday School. Bring them tomorrow.

To Parents

To Parents

Are your children missing the inspiration of Christian teachings, the contact of noble lives, the joy of good works, well done? They may be missing these if they do not attend Sunday School. Bring them tomorrow.

To the Visitor

You may be absent from home but you need not be absent from the inspiration and fellowship of other Christians. Come to one of our Churches tomorrow.

allows God to do things through a human channel or instrument. The consecration of believers, preachers, Sunday School teachers and others is of primary importance. The guilt of sin includes a slavery, Sin blinds its victims. Perhaps the most terrible consequences of sin is its deadly power of passing on its taint to others in the family, the community and even the next generation.

"The Bible tells us that Christ alone can save. There are not two ways of salvation. There are not two methods of getting people to accept Christ. Christ removes the condemnation of sin. He liberates from the power and shackles of sin. He illuminates the minds and He makes the believer a channel of blessing."

CONSECRATION IS SUPREME IS DECLARATION OF EVANGELIST

Preaching to a congregation that filled the Tabernacle on E. Third St., Thursday evening, Evangelist Ralph Stewart spoke of "Consecration the Supreme Thing." He said "Since Christ alone can meet man's need, the secret of service is to permit Christ to live in and through us. Our usefulness will be proportionate to our consecration."

The speaker said further: "There are two ideals of Christian service. In one, man seeks to do things for Christ; in the other, he

Where Red Revolution Is Blazing

The flame of revolution is once more sweeping through El Salvador. This time the torch of revolt is said to be carried by Communists. Hundreds have been killed in the latest upheaval as the rebels ran amuck dynamiting Federal buildings and executing every sympathizer of the Provisional Government upon whom they can lay their hands. Above photos show, top, a typical street scene in San Salvador, the capital, which is now reported beset by Red revolutionaries; lower shows some of the well-trained cavalry of the army of El Salvador in action.

Ruth Chatterton
Now working on her first picture for her new bosses, Warner Bros. The picture is called "The Rich Are Always With Us."

Heiress Elopement to Try Stage

Estranged from her family when she married Bevis Pickrell, a truck driver, Mrs. Beatrice Barclay Pickrell, daughter of a wealthy former vice-president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, with a mansion at Montclair, N.J., is untroubled by the blows dealt to her romance by fate. Her husband out of work, dispossessed from their home, a storage company threatening to sell their household belongings and the wolf barking at the door, the young bride still remains happy and refuses to ask her family for help. Mrs. Pickrell who attended exclusive dancing schools for five years, is now making an attempt to capitalize on what she learned there. She is shown rehearsing for a theatrical debut at New York with Robert Coffey.

Five-year-old Anita Loni, Berlin, Germany, daughter of the famous musical comedy star, Noni, is called the youngest harp player in

Shanghai Menaced by Jap Invaders

An aerial view of the city of Shanghai, China, which has now become an international storm center, by reason of the threatened Japanese occupation. The harbor shown in the photo now contains Jap warships loaded with reinforcements to strengthen the existing Japanese forces in the city. Already the Nipponese have landed a large force of marines and machine guns and are threatening to take over the entire city if the Chinese persist in their boycott of Japanese goods adopted after the Jap occupation of Manchuria. Chinese merchants are urging the national government at Nanking to agree unconditionally to the demands of the invaders rather than cause more bloodshed. However, the other great powers who have settlements and interests in Shanghai may have something to say about Japan taking over the city. Map shows the location of the latest Sino-Jap controversy.

Where Death Rode the Runway

This remarkable photo, made on the Zackelfall course at Schreiberhau, Germany, shows a four-man bob-sled at the exact moment when, traveling at terrific speed, it shot off the course at a dangerous "S" curve and crashed into the little group of spectators massed at that point. Such was the velocity of the sled that the force with which it struck killed three spectators and injured seventeen.

Seeks White House Tenancy

The colorful Governor of Oklahoma, William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, is shown as he was greeted on the steps of the National Capitol by his old friend, Representative Tom D. McKeown, of the Governor's home State. The hat which "Alfalfa Bill" is waving so enthusiastically has been flung into the Presidential ring. The fiery Governor will seek the Democratic nomination on a platform of "four-square Americanism," as a rebuke to the "internationalists" among Democratic Party aspirants. The main plank in Governor Murray's platform is "get one man in love with one woman and get them to own a home."

Tornado's Wake of Death

Madman's Victim

This is a recent picture of Betty Hickok, attractive 18-year-old daughter of Dr. A. L. Hickok, resident psychiatrist at Rockview Penitentiary, Bellefont, Pa., who was fatally stabbed by Fred Collins, a mentally defective negro "trustee." Collins was handy man at the Hickok home and confessed he slew Miss Hickok because he fancied the girl had paid more attention to another convict, who was also employed there as a chef.

Tornado Heroine

Disregarding the agony caused by a broken arm she sustained when hurled 25 feet through the air, this little 12-year-old girl, Helen Simmons, of Hamilton, Miss., proved the heroine of the deadly tornado that killed her mother and demolished the town of Hamilton. After saving her nine-year-old brother's life by pulling him from beneath a pile of debris, Helen kept her own hurts secret until she had secured aid for her mother and sisters, still trapped in their wrecked home. The sisters, Vera and Velma, twins, aged 14, are in hospital at Aberdeen, Miss.

Mine War Victim

Her Honor on Job

Starting work at her desk in her new role of Mayor of Linndale, Ohio, Ann Lakawitz, 30-year-old blonde, is shown as she took over her mayoral duties. Linndale is a suburb of Cleveland, which Her Honor hopes to convert into a model town—by kindness. In private life Miss Lakawitz is a secretary.

Scion of the blue-blood Cabots of Boston, John Cabot, son of Godfrey Lowell Cabot, whose sons of Arthur Kelly, millionaire produce dealer of New York, plunged to death into the East River off Classon Pt., Bronx, while on a practice spin. Francis, 24, an accomplished pilot, being an Army reserve flier, is believed to have given his brother a flying lesson when the tragedy occurred. They had just taken off from North Beach Airport, L.I., when the plane crashed into the river.

End of Prayer Marathon

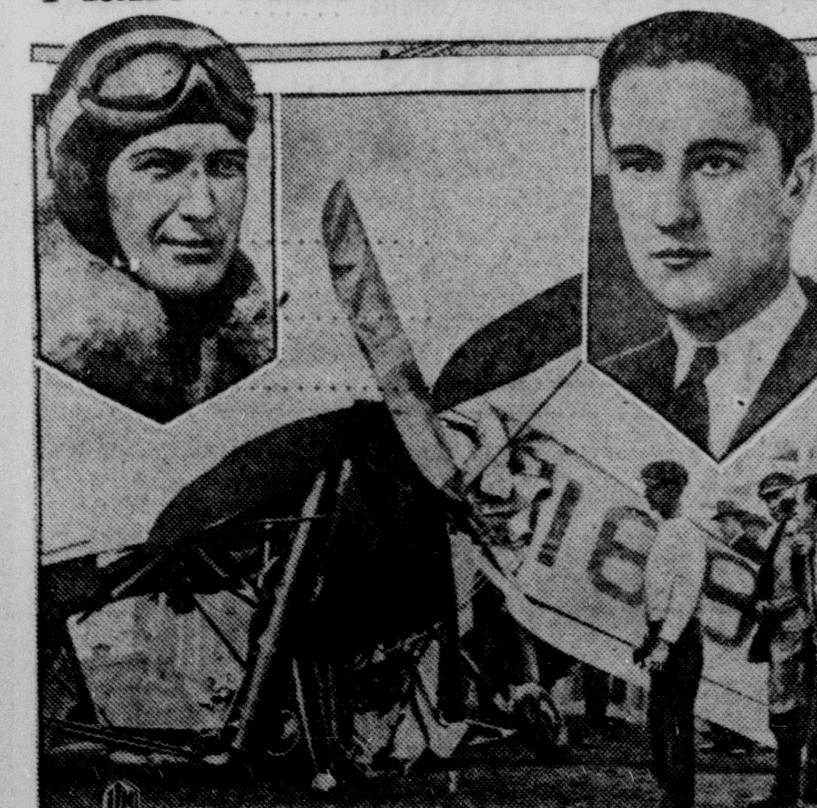

This unusual photo shows the scene in the Christ Reformed Church at Pittsburgh, Pa., at the conclusion of the 24 hours of continuous prayer, held recently to seek divine intercession for the relief of unemployment. At the start of the prayer vigil 180 worshippers were in the church, but at the conclusion only 25 remained, 22 being women. The entire 24 hours were spent praying and chanting hymns.

Striking Out on Honeymoon

Starting out on a belated honeymoon, Lyn Lary, shortstop of the New York Yankees, and his bride, the former Mary Lawlor, lovely show-girl, are shown as they sailed from New York for Europe. Seeing them off is Mrs. George Herman (Babe) Ruth (left). Lary and his bride will be gone for about a month, after which the benefit Yankee will rejoin his teammates at St. Petersburg, Fla., for Spring training, provided he and the management have come to a satisfactory salary agreement.

Plane That Killed Brothers

This is the twisted wreckage of the monoplane in which two brothers, Lieutenant Francis X. Kelly (left inset) and Edward Kelly (right), sons of Arthur Kelly, millionaire produce dealer of New York, plunged to death into the East River off Classon Pt., Bronx, while on a practice spin. Francis, 24, an accomplished pilot, being an Army reserve flier, is believed to have given his brother a flying lesson when the tragedy occurred. Such was the velocity of the sled that the force with which it struck killed three spectators and injured seventeen.

Seeks White House Tenancy

The colorful Governor of Oklahoma, William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, is shown as he was greeted on the steps of the National Capitol by his old friend, Representative Tom D. McKeown, of the Governor's home State. The hat which "Alfalfa Bill" is waving so enthusiastically has been flung into the Presidential ring. The fiery Governor will seek the Democratic nomination on a platform of "four-square Americanism," as a rebuke to the "internationalists" among Democratic Party aspirants. The main plank in Governor Murray's platform is "get one man in love with one woman and get them to own a home."

Tornado's Wake of Death

Here is one of the scenes of desolation left in the wake of the disastrous tornado that swept central Alabama and central Mississippi, bringing death to twelve persons and injuring one hundred and fifty. Photo shows the debris that was once the school at Moundville, Ala., after the big wind had torn it from its foundation. Luckily the building had been vacated a short time before the tornado struck, so none of the pupils was injured.

This is a recent picture of Betty Hickok, attractive 18-year-old daughter of Dr. A. L. Hickok, resident psychiatrist at Rockview Penitentiary, Bellefonte, Pa., who was fatally stabbed by Fred Collins, a mentally defective negro "trustee." Collins was handy man at the Hickok home and confessed he slew Miss Hickok because he fancied the girl had paid more attention to another convict, who was also employed there as a chef.

Disregarding the agony caused by a broken arm she sustained when hurled 25 feet through the air, this little 12-year-old girl, Helen Simmons, of Hamilton, Miss., proved the heroine of the deadly tornado that killed her mother and demolished the town of Hamilton. After saving her nine-year-old brother's life by pulling him from beneath a pile of debris, Helen kept her own hurts secret until she had secured aid for her mother and sisters, still trapped in their wrecked home. The sisters, Vera and Velma, twins, aged 14, are in hospital at Aberdeen, Miss.

Heiress Elopement to Try Stage

Estranged from her family when she married Bevis Pickrell, a truck driver, Mrs. Beatrice Barclay Pickrell, daughter of a wealthy former vice-president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, with a mansion at Montclair, N. J., is unruffled by the blows dealt to her romance by fate. Her husband out of work, dispossessed from their home, a storage company threatening to sell their household belongings and the wolf barking at the door, the young bride still remains happy and refuses to ask her family for help. Mrs. Pickrell who attended exclusive dancing schools for five years, is now making an attempt to capitalize on what she learned there. She is shown rehearsing for a theatrical debut at New York with Robert Coffey.

Shanghai Menaced by Jap Invaders

An aerial view of the city of Shanghai, China, which has now become an international storm center, by reason of the threatened Japanese occupation. The harbor shown in the photo now contains Jap warships loaded with reinforcements to strengthen the existing Japanese forces in the city. Already the Nippone have landed a large force of marines and machine guns and are threatening to take over the entire city if the Chinese persist in

Her Honor on Job

Starting work at her desk in her new role of Mayor of Linndale, Ohio, Ann Lakawitz, 30-year-old blonde, is shown as she took over her mayoral duties. Linndale is a suburb of Cleveland, which Her Honor hopes to convert into a model town—by kindness. In private life Miss Lakawitz is a secretary.

A Cabot to Wed

Scion of the blue-blood Cabots of Boston, John Cabot, son of Godfrey Lowell Cabot, whose engagement to Miss Elizabeth L. Frazer of Mexico City, has just been announced, is third secretary of the United States Embassy in the Mexican capital. Cabot is a Harvard graduate of 1923.

End of Prayer Marathon

This unusual photo shows the scene in the Christ Reformed Church at Pittsburgh, Pa., at the conclusion of the 24 hours of continuous prayer, held recently to seek divine intercession for the relief of unemployment. At the start of the prayer vigil 180 worshippers were in the church, but at the conclusion only 25 remained, 22 being women.

The entire 24 hours were spent praying and chanting hymns.

Striking Out on Honeymoon

Starting out on a belated honeymoon, Lyn Lary, shortstop of the New York Yankees, and his bride, the former Mary Lawlor, lovely show-girl, are shown as they sailed from New York for Europe. Seeing them off is Mrs. George Herman (Babe) Ruth (left). Lary and his bride will be gone for about a month, after which the benedict Yankee will rejoin his teammates at St. Petersburg, Fla., for Spring training, provided he and the management have come to a satisfactory salary agreement.

This is the twisted wreckage of the monoplane in which two brothers, Lieutenant Francis X. Kelly (left inset) and Edward Kelly (right), sons of Arthur Kelly, millionaire produce dealer of New York, plunged to death into the East River off Clason Pt., Bronx, while on a practice spin. Francis, 24, an accomplished pilot, being an Army reserve flier, is believed to have been giving his brother a flying lesson when the tragedy occurred. They had just taken off from North Beach Airport, L. I., when the plane crashed into the river.

Monday morning's program will open at 10 o'clock and will be a school session with L. H. Downing presiding. Following music by the high school orchestra and the invocation by the Rev. Charles Lusk a program will be presented by pupils of the grade school. Mrs. Phillips will speak on "Are We Using the Tools God Gave Us?" and Mr. Casselman will talk on "Some Odd Stories of Queer Folks". Lowell Alexander will sing a solo and County Superintendent H. C. Aultman will talk briefly. Charles Hollingsworth will preside at the afternoon session opening at 1:30 o'clock to be known as the home session. The girls' glee club will sing and Hazel Hite and Mary Stewart will sing a duet. Mrs. Phillips will talk on "Home-The Force Behind the Scene" and Mr. Casselman's subject will be "The Brighter Side of Farm Life". A demonstration will be put on by the Dayton Power and Light Co.

A community session will be held Monday evening, opening at 7:30 o'clock. There will be music by the high school orchestra and the Rev. G. T. Bateman will deliver the invocation. Mrs. Onia Smith will preside. "The Value of the P.T.A." will be discussed by Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Casselman will talk on "Do You Want Your Boy to be Farmer?"

John Chitty will preside at a Grange session Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The first grade will present a musical program and the Rev. C. A. Arthur will offer the invocation. Mr. Casselman's subject will be "The Farmer and His Organizations" and Mrs. Phillips will discuss "Our Church and Your Church".

County Agent E. A. Drake and Miss Ruth Radford, county home demonstration agent, will talk on Tuesday afternoon's program opening at 1:30 o'clock. Mr. Casselman will discuss "What of the Future?" and Mrs. Phillips' subject will be "Scoring the Community". Geraldine Franklin and Helen Miley will sing a duet and the high school chorus will also sing.

A one act play, "Father Goes on a Diet" will be a feature of Tuesday evening's program. Another feature will be a father and son and a mother and daughter resemblance contest. There will be special music by the orchestra, Kenneth Jasper and Robert Conklin will sing a duet and a male quartet will sing.

In connection with the institute there will be a domestic science, corn and grain show and school exhibits. Attractive prizes have been donated by Wilmington, Port William, Xenia, Sabina, Jamestown, Dayton, and Bowersville merchants to be awarded in the various classes in the exhibits. Winners in the events will be announced Tuesday evening and prizes will be awarded then.

The Right Way to Reduce

If you are over-fat, do what doctors the world over now are doing. They supply a lacking gland secretion which helps turn food to energy, rather than to fat. The results are seen everywhere. Without starvation, multitudes of people have gained new beauty, youth and vim.

That right method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in every circle you see slender, happy people who can tell you the results.

Go do what they did. Ask your druggist for Marmola. A book in the box will tell you all about it. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal, and vim comes back. Start Marmola now.

COUNT 13,000 BIRDS

ANTIOCH STUDENTS SAVE COLLEGE CASH BY VARIOUS DUTIES
An evaluation of the "community service" program of Antioch College, recently submitted to the community council, says that student workers who contribute their time save approximately $5,000 a year for the college.

This report, prepared by Richard Berkley, senior student from Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Catherine Senf, junior of 517 McLain St., Dayton, is one of the steps in the survey of the development of the entire Antioch program during the last decade, which was announced by Dean Algo D. Henderson last fall as a preliminary for formulating objectives and making possible shifts in emphases for the future. According to the report, 125 upperclass men and women in each division of the school year each contribute three to four hours per week assisting faculty members in various teaching and administrative duties such as correcting papers, leading discussions, supervising laboratory work, keeping records, putting papers, and books in order, and the like. Their work is figured as being worth thirty to fifty cents an hour. In addition, the voluntary work of a large group of freshmen and sophomores, who work with student organizations and publications and supply emergency assistance for the community government association and the administration and faculty, may be estimated to be worth twenty-five cents an hour, the report says.

Miss Senf and Berkley are this year's managers of the community service plan which was initiated some years ago at the suggestion of President Arthur E. Morgan, who believes that students should share in the responsibilities as well as the privileges of the college community, as they should in their own communities after they leave college. They are the only paid workers and direct the project on a cooperative job basis for alternate periods of the school year, compiling reports and assisting in statistical work in addition to assigning students to various jobs.

DID YOU KNOW? --- By R. J. Scott

COMMODORE CORNELIUS VANDERBILT'S GREATEST ACTIVITY AND BUSINESS TRIUMPHANTS CAME AFTER HE WAS 70 YEARS OF AGE

IN 1810 AT THE AGE OF 16 VANDERBILT INVESTED HIS FORTUNE OF $100 IN A SAILBOAT AND STARTED A FERRY LINE BETWEEN STATEN ISLAND AND NEW YORK. THE BUSINESS GREW UNTIL AT ONE TIME HE CONTROLLED MOST OF THE WATER TRANSPORTATION ALONG THE EASTERN COAST LINE — AT THE AGE OF 70 WHEN HE ABANDONED WATER TRANSPORTATION TO INVEST IN RAILROADS VANDERBILT WAS WORTH $16,000,000 — WHEN HE DIED, AT THE AGE OF 83, HE LEFT MORE THAN $100,000,000

Variety Of Programs On Week-End Air Schedules

By MILDRED MASON

FOR those who are contemplating spending the week end at home almost anything that one would desire in radio entertainment may be found by tuning in on your set. There is so much on the air for Saturday and Sunday that it is difficult to know what to recommend but here it goes.

Possibly one of the outstanding features will be Mme. Schumann-Heink, who will be guest artist on a program broadcast over an NBC network through WSAI, Cincinnati, Sunday at 5:30 p. m. She has consented to sing the songs that her listeners most often ask for.

Representative on Air.

Paul John Kyvale, representative from Minnesota; Oscar Ameringer, editor of the American Guardian and Rexford G. Tugwell professor of economics, Columbia University, will be heard during a program to be broadcast over an NBC-WEAF network Saturday at 2 p. m. The talks will be heard in a program over WSAI, Cincinnati.

RECEIVER IS NAMED FOR CANNING PLANT AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Attorney J. Carl Marshall was appointed receiver for the preservation of assets and to protect creditors of the Yellow Springs Canning Co., Yellow Springs, as a result of a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Gustave H. Hosket, 36 Potomac St., Dayton, who claims to have a one-fourth interest in the business.

Richard E. Hosket, Henry Hosket and Carl W. Hosket, named defendants in the action, and the plaintiff jointly own 1.40 acres of real estate in the village, factory buildings and equipment with a total valuation of $15,000, according to the petition. There is no mortgage or other lien on the property, it is claimed.

Asserting that he has endorsed notes for $1,500 and $3,300 given by the defendants, and is liable on these notes, the Dayton man charges that debts of the defendants aggregate $14,000.

The factory has a stock of canned corn in hand worth $7,000, but is unable to borrow money to meet pressing obligations, the petition recites.

Pointing out that the factory has orders on hand for a large amount of goods, Hosket declared that if the company is permitted to continue business under receivership, all creditors will be protected.

The petition also sets forth that the Heekin Can Co. holds a $8,000 mortgage on all canned corn of the company, and that Charles F. Rossing, Dayton, who has taken a judgment for $532.50 against two of the defendants, has caused an execution to be issued to levy on property. G. E. Nicholas is attorney for the plaintiff.

Ted Ater, through Attorneys Miller and Finney, had named the canning company and The Heekin Can Co. co-defendants in an attachment suit previously filed in court.

SEEKS DIVORCE
That her husband has been guilty of neglect of duty for eight years past and has been unkind and unreasonable to the children, disturbing her peace of mind, are charges contained in a suit for divorce filed in Common Pleas Court by Gertrude Lambert against Joseph Lambert.

Declaring her husband has been residing at Pedro, Lawrence County, O., since December 23, the plaintiff asks to be awarded custody of their three minor children, Daisy, Archie and Thelma, now living with her at Fairfield, O. The couple was married December 21, 1912 at Ironton, O.

ASK PARTITION
Partition of property is the object of a suit brought in Common Pleas Court, through Attorney F. L. Dean, by Orr M. Amole against Percy Brown Smith, Mary L. Smith, Sidney B. Smith, Nora Smith, Harriett E. Gill, Emmett Gill and Jessie V. Moore.

NOTE JUDGMENTS
A note judgment for $319.20 against Ralph B. Morrow, owner of the Osborn Hotel, and his wife, Lona, has been recovered by M. L. Stewart, in Common Pleas Court.

F. W. Dunkle has won a cognovit note judgment amounting to $252.17 in a suit against William Lauderback and Mary B. Rhoades.

TWO CANDIDATES IN COMMITTEE RACES

Two candidates, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, both residing in the Xenia city first ward, have filed with the board of elections their petitions of candidacy for election on their respective party central committees in Greene County, subject to the May 11 primary.

George Killeen is the first candidate to file for the Republican committee and C. R. McNamee, is the first Democratic candidate to announce.

Twenty-four central committee men for each party are elected every two years, and candidates have until 6:30 p. m. March 11 to file petitions.

For the first time in thirty years there was no factional contest two years ago by rival Republican groups for places on this party's central committee. Places on the Democratic committee were also uncontested at the August, 1930 primary.

NEWSPAPER AGENCY HAS CHANGED HANDS

Sale of the Greene County News Agency, a magazine and newspaper distributing agency, by Mrs. Anne Collier, N. Detroit St., to C. S. Halliday, Dayton, was made Thursday.

The agency occupies rooms in the Adair Bldg., E. Market St. in the rear of the Court House Beauty Shop, and was established six years ago by the late Earl Collier. Following Mr. Collier's death it has been operated by Mrs. Collier.

Mr. Halliday has been connected with the Crowell Publishing Co., Springfield on promotion work and will take charge of the agency here February 1. He expects to move with his family to Xenia soon.

RECEIVER IS NAMED FOR CANNING PLANT AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Attorney J. Carl Marshall was appointed receiver for the preservation of assets and to protect creditors of the Yellow Springs Canning Co., Yellow Springs, as a result of a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Gustave H. Hosket, 36 Potomac St., Dayton, who claims to have a one-fourth interest in the business.

Richard E. Hosket, Henry Hosket and Carl W. Hosket, named defendants in the action, and the plaintiff, jointly own 1.40 acres of real estate in the village factory buildings and equipment with a total valuation of $15,000, according to the petition. There is no mortgage or other lien on the property, it is claimed.

Asserting that he has endorsed notes for $1,500 and $3,300 given by the defendants, and is liable on these notes, the Dayton man charges that debts of the defendants aggregate $14,000.

The factory has a stock of canned corn worth $7,000, but is unable to borrow money to meet pressing obligations, the petition recites.

Pointing out that the factory has orders on hand for a large amount of goods, Hosket, declared that if the company is permitted to continue business under receivership, all creditors will be protected.

The petition also sets forth that the Heekin Can Co. holds a $8,000 mortgage on all canned corn of the company, and that Charles F. Rossing, Dayton, who has taken a judgment for $532.50 against two of the defendants, has caused an execution to be issued to levy on property. G. E. Nicholas is attorney for the plaintiff.

Ted Ater, through Attorneys Miller and Finney, had named the canning company and The Heekin Can Co., co-defendants in an attachment suit previously filed in court.

SEEKS DIVORCE

That her husband has been guilty of neglect of duty for eight years past and has been unkind and unreasonable to the children, disturbing her peace of mind, are charges contained in a suit for divorce filed in Common Pleas Court by Gertrude Lambert against Joseph Lambert.

Declaring her husband has been residing at Pedro, Lawrence County, O., since December 23, the plaintiff asks to be awarded custody of their three minor children, Daisy, Archie and Thelma, now living with her at Fairfield, O. The couple was married December 21, 1912 at Ironton, O.

ASK PARTITION

Partition of property is the object of a suit brought in Common Pleas Court, through Attorney F. L. Dean, by Ora M. Arnole against Percy Brown Smith, Mary L. Smith, Sidney B. Smith, Nora Smith, Harriett E. Gill, Emmett Gill and Dessa V. Moore.

NOTE JUDGMENTS

A note judgment for $319.20 against Ralph B. Morrow, owner of the Osborn Hotel, and his wife, Lona, has been recovered by M. L. Stewart, in Common Pleas Court.

F. W. Dunkle has won a cognovit note judgment amounting to $252.17 in a suit against William Lauderbach and Mary B. Rhoades.

TWO CANDIDATES IN COMMITTEE RACES

Two candidates, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, both residing in the Xenia city first ward, have filed with the board of elections their petitions of candidacy for election on their respective party central committees in Greene County, subject to the May 11 primary.

George Killeen is the first candidate to file for the Republican committee and C. R. McNamee, is the first Democratic candidate to announce.

Twenty-four central committee men for each party are elected every two years, and candidates have until 6:30 p. m. March 11 to file petitions.

For the first time in thirty years there was no factional contest two years ago by rival Republican groups for places on this party's central committee. Places on the Democratic committee were also uncontested at the August, 1930 primary.

NEWSPAPER AGENCY HAS CHANGED HANDS

Sale of the Greene County News Agency, a magazine and newspaper distributing agency, by Mrs. Anne Collier, N. Detroit St., to C. S. Halliday, Dayton, was made Thursday.

The agency occupies rooms in the Adair Bldg., E. Market St. in the rear of the Court House Beauty Shop, and was established six years ago by the late Earl Collier. Following Mr. Collier's death it has been operated by Mrs. Collier.

Mr. Halliday has been connected with the Crowell Publishing Co., Springfield on promotion work and will take charge of the agency here February 1. He expects to move with his family to Xenia soon.
